

HERE Fuel Prices

Help drivers get the best value with robust and up-to-date fuel information.

HERE Fuel Prices is a dynamic service that helps drivers find the cheapest or preferred fuel station with ease. HERE aggregates data from multiple sources all over the world to provide fuel price information updated in the service a few times a day (with intervals ranging from 15 minutes to 3 hours a day, depending on the country). Automotive manufacturers can tap into one service to provide drivers with relevant fuel-related information, no matter where they go.

Nearly half of drivers (45 percent)¹ consider cheaper prices to be the most important factor in choosing a fuel station. The detailed and granular information of HERE Fuel Prices allows drivers to travel cost-effectively and stress-free, even when they're running low on gas in unfamiliar areas.

- Route to fuel station

Global coverage

HERE aggregates data from providers located around the world. This eliminates the need for automotive manufacturers to manage inconsistent data quality or data formats, while connecting to a single source of information for end-users.

Quality assurance

Differentiate in-car navigation solutions with accurate, up-to-date fuel-related information. In addition to gathering data from multiple sources with daily updates, HERE also runs real-world tests to verify that all data is correct and no duplicates exist.

Full-range service offerings

Minimize multiple supplier contracts by sourcing this service in combination with other HERE connected services, such as Parking, Traffic, and Destination Weather.
